A new chapter in workplace storage.

Hamilton Casework Solutions collaborated with Gensler, serving as product design consultant, on the Arraya Locker System. Every curve, every proportion, every surface of Arraya was obsessed over by two industry leaders who refused to accept that lockers had to look like lockers.

Where architecture meets storage.

Furniture, not casework.

Arraya doesn't hide in back hallways or service corridors. With its gentle radiused corners, balanced proportions, and considered modularity— it's designed to live proudly in open workspaces, next to your best furniture pieces.

This is storage that deserves to be seen.

Your space. Your rules.

A true kit-of-parts system that scales from single units to entire walls. Mix vertical towers with horizontal runs. Choose your base: mobile casters for flexibility, legs for lightness, or plinths for architectural presence.

Precision at every touchpoint.

Every detail of Arraya has been considered – from the gentle radius of each corner to the proportion of every module. The system’s clean lines and balanced geometry reflect a design language rooted in architecture, not furniture trends. It’s storage that feels integrated, not added on.

Details that elevate.

Designed to belong anywhere — Arraya integrates seamlessly across the workplace, from workstations and collaboration zones to lounges, meeting areas, transition spaces, and team neighborhoods.

Redefining the art of storage.
